

POLICY OFFICER IN EUROPEAN AND INTERNATIONAL ORGANISATIONS

Professional Title registered in the National Register of Professional Certifications (RNCP)
European Qualifications Framework Level 7, RNCP 36157, NSF Code: 340 M

Confirming the decision of the CIFE Jury on 12 July 2024

and considering that
Alessia CANUTO
has fulfilled all requirements in compliance with the regulations
the professional title of

POLICY OFFICER IN EUROPEAN AND INTERNATIONAL ORGANISATIONS

is conferred on

Alessia CANUTO

Nice, 12 July 2024

Oleg Serebrian President of the Jury

Herman Van Rompuy President of CIFE

1. Certification name (in the original language)

Chargé de mission en organisations européennes et internationales

2. Translation of the certification name (if applicable. This translation has no legal value)

Policy Officer in European and International Organisations

3. Elements of competences acquired

Clarifying the objectives and expected results of the negotiation within one's own organisation through different interviews and work meetings, in order to make the negotiation process coherent.

Examining what's at stake in the negotiation from the past and present political, financial and/or economic context in order to defend the interests of the organisation represented.

Identifying the national, European and international legal bases (laws, treaties, conventions, etc.) to be considered in the negotiation with regard to the definition of possible strategic positions in order to respect and align with the legal framework.

Mapping the actors involved and impacted by identifying their positions and interests and establishing the points of leverage in order to construct hypotheses for the development of situations and impactful scenarios to be proposed that are favourable to the objectives of the organisation represented.

Writing a summary based on the analysis of the situation, the regulations, the map of the actors and the negotiation hypotheses in order to produce a synthetic and precise document for decision-makers and the negotiation participants.

Preparing arguments according to the plausible scenarios of the opposing party and the room for manoeuvre of each party in order to anticipate the contents of the negotiation and with the aim of obtaining an optimal result.

Presenting a position in a convincing and succinct manner to an international audience based on a thorough knowledge of the issues at stake in a negotiation, in order to best represent the interests of an actor.

Studying the positions of different actors with converging or complementary interests based on their public statements, actions and individual interviews in order to build political coalitions around common projects.

Finding real or possible areas of overlapping interest between European or international actors based on the analysis of their interests in order to forge compromises.

Evaluating the impact of a potential agreement on the policy of one's party's in a limited timeframe, based on different scenarios, in order to quickly adapt one's position.

Summarising the results of the negotiation, the commitments made and the implications for the public policy concerned in a summary report in order to inform stakeholders within one's own organisation and (where appropriate) the general public.

On the basis of the public policy objectives of European and international organisations, defining the intervention strategy of a European or international organisation in order to deploy it and apply it in a specific local context.

Analysing a specific socio-cultural context on the basis of a feasibility study in order to adapt the programme of a project to local needs.

Structuring a project by defining the framework and potential of the project according to the opportunities and circumstances, taking into account the funding rules of European and international organisations, in order to develop an eligible project plan.

Based on consultations with key stakeholders, creating a network of international partners and involving all stakeholders (such as partner state institutions, non-state entities, civil society groups, other donors, etc.) in a dialogue to define who can be the project leaders or co-leaders.

Drafting a project proposal by defining a logical framework, objectively verifiable indicators of achievement, sources and means of verification, starting hypotheses and a financing plan, in order to respond to the framework set by international organisations and to guarantee and anticipate the feasibility of the project.

Drafting the technical specifications of a call for tender for the implementation of international projects by defining its terms of reference, its assumptions in terms of budget, personnel and infrastructure in order to inform the candidates of the conditions for the realisation of the project, the implementation assumptions and the risks to be considered.

Evaluating the applications submitted by the various candidate organisations, assessing their quality and the feasibility of the proposals, the soundness of the solutions chosen and the financial assumptions in order to select one or more contractors.

Building a project team based on the objectives and specifications of the project in order to mobilise the relevant resources for the realisation of the project.

Designing the operational structure of a project based on the logical framework to define the general and specific objectives of the project, the different stages of implementation, the monitoring indicators and all the potential risks in order to present a document to obtain the funding agreement from the donors.

Monitoring the stages of a project rigorously, adapting it (if necessary) to changes in context or situation, in order to achieve the best results while promoting the organisation's strategic priorities.

Collecting, analysing, exploiting and summarising management information from a report or by organising work meetings systematically, in order to write progress reports on an international project.

Managing communication, circulation and feedback of information between all project actors using collaborative tools to enable cooperation and commitment from all actors.

Evaluating the impact of an international project through the results observed, the feedback from the various internal and external stakeholders, in order to measure the achievement of the project's objectives, the quality of its implementation and the performance of the organisation carrying out the project.

Evaluating the adequacy between the initial objectives of a project and the results obtained by means of an audit reference system in order to detect possible dysfunctioning and discrepancies and propose realistic, operational and pragmatic recommendations.

Assessing the legality and regularity of project expenditure and income, based on documents, written proofs, analyses and project implementation reports, in order to evaluate whether the funds allocated to the project have been used in accordance with sound financial management and for the purposes for which they were intended.

Identifying in the current context and/or evolving environment what needs to be changed in the existing legal framework in a given policy area or field in order to assess different options for new legislative proposals.

Consulting different sources of information through meetings or in-depth research to identify the directions to be taken in the new legal instrument.

Drafting legal proposals anticipating the economic, environmental and social impacts of the proposed legislative initiative in order to develop a scheme that meets the needs of the changing context and environment.

Supporting one's legislative proposal throughout the political process through one's professional network and sources of information, taking into account and selecting relevant information, in order to ensure its adoption.

Drafting, in accordance with the appropriate writing styles, different types of documents (fact sheets, summary notes, progress reports, political reports) to inform the different stakeholders and defend the proposed text.

Advising the relevant enforcement bodies in each country on the steps, methods and strategies to ensure that the regulation is properly implemented.

Supervising the stages of legal implementation by monitoring and interpreting the complex international political processes to ensure that the objectives are met.

Amassing procedural files, taking into account the legal provisions, before the competent judicial bodies, in the event of non-application of international regulations, so that each State can be in conformity.

Building a network of relevant contacts in one's own establishment and in international or European organisations through the identification of competent persons in the areas concerned in order to be able to mobilise points of leverage.

Based on the knowledge of the decision-making mechanisms in a European or international organisation, following a political process on a daily basis and in a foresightful manner in order to collect early information to intervene appropriately.

Drafting position papers, summary notes and arguments from official and unofficial sources of information, and press kits for decision-makers, in order to support and influence the political processes.

Defending the position of the represented organisation in hearings, parliamentary group meetings and press conferences with well-constructed arguments to support and influence the audience and political processes.

Influencing the stakeholders of the institutional process by targeting decisive interlocutors, based on a mapping of actors, at the right time in order to mobilise alliances and political support.

Advising one's own organisation on the basis of an analysis of the political action and decision-making mechanisms of an international or European organisation, in order to recommend changes in position or strategy to one's superiors.

Seizing upon project, fundraising or financing opportunities created by public policies conducted by international and European organisations by monitoring the political process and studying calls for tenders in order to fulfil the organisation's mission.

4. Sectors of activity and/or types of employment accessible to the holder of the certification

Sector of activity:

European Union institutions and agencies,
International organisations, international development and humanitarian aid,
National governments and agencies,
Public institutions,
Local and regional authorities,
Private companies

Types of accessible jobs:

Deputy or Accredited Parliamentary Assistant to a Member of the European Parliament,
Attaché to the Directorate-General, Cabinet of the Director,
Evaluation Officer, Public Affairs Officer, Project Manager, Programme Manager,
International Development Project Manager,
Consular, Ministerial, European Policy, Senior or Technical Advisor,
Policy Expert (International Climate/Energy),
Project Coordinator, Manager, Writer,
Election Observer,

Programme Officer, Project Officer (International and European), Sector/Section Officer, Strategic Partnership Officer, Development Officer, International Relations Officer, Deputy State Secretary, Department Secretary, Strategist.

ROME Code(s):

M1403 – Socio-economic studies

Legal references for activity regulations:

N/A

5. Official basis for the certification

Certifying body

Legal name of the certifying body:
CENTRE INTER FORMATION EUROPEENNE

Grading system/ certification requirements:

Assessment procedures:
Individual case studies,
Written summaries,
Group simulations in a professional context,
Master theses: defence and discussion before the certification jury.

Description of the conditions for the acquisition of the certification by capitalising on the skill units and/or equivalents:

Candidates have the possibility of acquiring the "Policy Officer in European and International Organisations" certification by capitalising on the four skill units, either through VAE (validation of the acquired professional experience) and/or following a training course.

Once all four units have been validated, the candidate is then asked to write a research paper and is invited to defend it before the certification jury.

(National or European) Level of the Certificate

National level (Decree No. 2019-14 of 8 January 2019 on the national framework of professional qualifications): Level 7
European Qualifications Framework (EQF): Level 7

Authority responsible for enabling the certificate

France compétences
11 rue Scribe F-75009 Paris

Access to the next level of education/training
International agreements on recognition of qualifications
Legal basis

Date of registration decision: 26/01/2022
Duration of registration: 3 years
Registration expiry date: 26/01/2025

6. Officially recognised modes of access to certification

|                                               |     |
|-----------------------------------------------|-----|
| With an apprenticeship contract               | No  |
| With a professionalisation contract           | No  |
| With work experience                          | Yes |
| After a training course as a pupil or student | Yes |
| After an in-house training course             | No  |
| By individual application                     | No  |

7. Further information

---

Required entry level (if applicable)

Access to the certification system is by application and presentation of a file and copies of diplomas obtained (at least level 6)

For further information, in particular on the national qualifications system:

<https://www.francecompetences.fr>

Europass National Centre

<https://agence.erasmusplus.fr/programme-erasmus/outils/europass>